

"He had read most of the pamphlets published in France since his abdication. Some of them/ said I»% $rally me a traitor — a coward; but it is only truth that tvotmds •••- the French well know that I am no coward. HP wisest plan «»f the HourlKrn would be to follow, with regard to me. the same rule I observed with respect to them, which wa>» IM»I to MitJVr people to speak either ill or well of* them/

uⁿ Speaking of the, finances of France, Nap*»ieoit *aid. * All that I directed to IK* printed upitii tliis Mthjeet i* r4t't*'th true/The civil lint was 'W,(HKI,(XM> francs, but the expenditure srb dom exc,eedt>d lH,(HM),(KM)_t and with that, lie haul i>i>iit>|i'i>d tun or three of the pal<u:eK. His table eont l.tMHLjMiii fraticH. Hi*-* stable and cfutmt^ indludiug TlMI horshi^s, 2,<HJO,iM>. !iesid<*K
 this he had the* disiicwnl of tin* * IfamninM MfnttmlintiirtwS n fund of 2fK),(KK>,(KK), out of whieli he made presett!.*. auti n>= warded those, who diKtinguished themselfeH, To my <|tit*sti<m, ' Whence was thi< fund derived ?' in* ustMwert*!. * out of tip* contributions of my enemies, Aiuttria, for tm*t* tniitir.fi ttf peace, paid me by secret articles <<'#H),})OO,000 friiiteit.

Prnsniu

just as enormously/ I inquired if !«* lnul reeeivet]

from Russia ? He said, * No!^f I ask«d him In

thought of the Emperor Alexander. <lli, in in n true (2reek! *»u«« cannot rely on him. He in, however, iitt*Iligi*ii!,, mini !m*